

SPECIAL ISSUE

Current Issues and Future Trends in Computer-Assisted Language Learning and Teaching

Guest Editors:

Gölge Seferoğlu

Middle East Technical University, Ankara, Turkey

&

Vance Stevens

Petroleum Institute, Abu Dhabi, UAE

Call for Manuscripts

Researchers are encouraged to submit previously unpublished manuscripts devoted to research on current issues and trends in computer-assisted language learning and teaching.

RECOMMENDED TOPICS

Topics include, but are not limited to:

- emerging technologies and language education
- potential uses of Web 2.0 technologies for learning and teaching
- localizing Internet materials to specific contexts
- pedagogical implications of social network environments
- distance learning, mobile learning, blended learning, e-learning, collaborative learning
- e-moderation and language education
- fostering autonomous learning through technology
- virtual gaming and language learning/teaching
- managing language technology in teaching contexts
- training language teachers in technology supported environments
- training language teachers to teach using technological resources
- design of materials integrating technology into the language classroom
- building national/international partnerships for networked language learning
- the use of virtual worlds in language teaching

All submissions should report on original research.

Manuscripts should be submitted to the guest editors via email at golge.seferoglu@gmail.com

A confirmation of the receipt of the manuscript will be sent to the authors within two weeks of the submission. All manuscripts will be peer reviewed by an international panel of experts in the field. It is expected that the special theme issue will be published in December 2008.

For further information on submissions, including instructions for authors, please visit the journal's website:
<http://www.ejer.com.tr>

Manuscripts should be submitted by July 31, 2008.

ANI PUBLISHING

Kizilirmak Sok. No: 10/A Bakanliklar-Ankara

0 312 425 8150 aniyayincilik@aniyayincilik.com.tr